The University of Maryland School of Law
Fourth Annual Business Law Conference

Twilight in the Zone of Insolvency:
FIDUCIARY DUTY AND CREDITORS
OF TROUBLED COMPANIES

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 2005

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND
SCHOOL OF LAW
500 WEST BALTIMORE STREET
BALTIMORE, MD 21201
On Friday, November 4, 2005, the University of Maryland School of Law, in cooperation with the Journal of Business & Technology Law, will host its fourth annual business law conference at the Nathan Patz Law Center in Baltimore. The focus of the 2005 conference is the trend among numerous courts toward the imposition of a common law duty running from a corporation’s board of directors to the corporation’s creditors. This trend appears to be quite at odds with the traditional idea that the board of directors owes a fiduciary duty exclusively to the stockholders. Nevertheless, there seems to be little resistance in the courts to recognition of the new duty.

Among the questions that the conference will address are:

• when is the duty triggered?
• how does it square with other creditor protections?
• what does the duty entail?
• how does it differ from existing rules?
• who has standing to bring the action?
• how does the duty work in the face of the shareholder primacy norm?
• how does it relate to other constituency statutes?
• how do these emerging standards apply to corporate officers and professionals?
• how is the duty enforced?
• does it apply outside of a bankruptcy proceeding?
• how does this work in relation to the developing doctrine of “deepening insolvency”?
• is there a comparable duty in the UK or EU?
• what is the source of the new duty?
• do we really need a new doctrine here?

The conference will assemble the leading authorities in this important debate, including legal scholars, practicing lawyers, and members of the judiciary. Conference proceedings and papers will be published in the Journal of Business & Technology Law.

The University of Maryland School of Law offers a comprehensive Business Law Program that focuses on innovative teaching, practical experience, research, and scholarship in the fields of business organization law, securities regulation, intellectual property, tax, business transactions, and related areas. The Program provides students with the legal, practical, and ethical skills necessary to advise and represent for-profit and not-for-profit businesses, as well as the opportunity to engage in critical and innovative thinking about cutting-edge issues in business law.

The Journal of Business & Technology Law at the University of Maryland School of Law provides a unique publication venue for the cutting-edge thinking on issues of law and policy arising as a result of the interplay among evolving forms of organization, methods of finance, and innovation in products and services. With the help of a distinguished board of advisers, JBTL is a vital new voice for legal scholars, practicing lawyers, the judiciary, and business people in general. There is no other extant journal that focuses on the intersection of these issues. JBTL publishes twice per year and will feature papers and proceedings from the law school’s annual business law conference and periodic roundtable discussions. In addition, JBTL will serve as the national journal of record for case law developments emanating from the increasing number of state business courts.
