THE CHINESE ARE THE WORST?: HUMAN RIGHTS AND LABOR PRACTICES IN ZAMBIAN MINING

Barry Sautman* and YAN Hairong

TABLE OF CONTENTS

I. INTRODUCTION: DISCOURSES OF CHINA-IN-AFRICA AND COPPER MINING IN ZAMBA ... 2

II. EMPIRICAL PROBLEMS .................. 12
A. Safety Records Compared and Contextualized ... 13
   1. Fatalities as a Key Indicator of Safety ........ 14
   2. Operational Configurations and Fatality Rates ........................................... 23
   3. Health & Safety Compared .................. 29
B. The Wage Gap: Factoring in Contract Workers, Productivity and Profits .................. 34
   2. Productivity Differences .................. 41
   3. Profits Large and Small ................. 45
   4. Other Factors Affecting Wages .......... 52
C. Hours ........................................ 60
D. Job Security .................................. 62
E. Unions ...................................... 65

III. METHODOLOGICAL CONFUSIONS .......... 72
IV. CONTEXTUALIZING THE CLAIM .......... 81
V. CONCLUSION: WHY “THE CHINESE ARE THE WORST” .................................. 91

* Barry Sautman is a political scientist and lawyer at Hong Kong University of Science & Technology. His main areas of research are China-Africa links, the Tibet Question and ethnic minority rights in China.

 YAN Hairong is an anthropologist at Hong Kong Polytechnic University and author of New Masters, New Servants: Migration, Development, and Women Workers in China (Duke University Press, 2008). Her research interests include China-Africa links and the rural cooperative movement in China. Her intellectual interests include labor, gender, rurality and rural-urban relations, socialism and post-socialism, comparative social development, etc.

(1)