Dear Friends,

Welcome to the Maryland Public Interest Law Project’s Annual Goods and Services Auction! Thank you for attending the Auction and for supporting MPILP’s efforts to promote public interest law through experiential legal opportunities.

Tonight’s proceeds will be used to fund $4,000 grants for University of Maryland law students who will be working full-time during the summer for non-profit and governmental organizations that provide legal services to underrepresented individuals and communities. By bidding generously, you will enable the Maryland Public Interest Law Project, Inc. (MPILP) to provide numerous grants to dedicated students who will increase access to justice for those who would otherwise go without representation.

Thank you again for joining us tonight to support and celebrate MPILP’s work. We hope you enjoy what promises to be a wonderful evening.

Best Wishes,
Brooke Irving & Mike Bacharach

PROFESSOR ROBERT PERCIVAL

Robert Percival is the Robert F. Stanton Professor of Law and the Director of the school’s Environmental Law Program. Professor Percival joined the Maryland Faculty in 1987 after serving as senior attorney for the Environmental Defense Fund. While in law school at Stanford University, he served as managing editor of the Stanford Law Review and was named the Nathan Abbott Scholar for graduating first in his class. Percival served as a law clerk for Judge Shirley M. Hufstedler of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit and for U.S. Supreme Court Justice Byron R. White. Percival also served as a special assistant to the first U.S. Secretary of Education.

Professor Percival has taught courses in Environmental Law; Comparative Environmental Law; Constitutional Law, and Administrative Law. In 2007, Professor Percival was named the University’s “Teacher of the Year.” He directs the school’s prestigious environmental law program, and continues to promote the teaching of environmental law throughout the world. He has also lectured and presented environmental law workshops on six continents including Australia, Chile, India, Iran, Japan, Mongolia, Uganda, Ukraine, the former Soviet Union, and most recently in Spring 2008 in China.

His scholarship includes published articles on the emergence of environmental law, its globalization, the need to protect natural resources, and the evolution of environmental policy. He is the principal author of the country’s most widely used casebook on environmental law, Environmental Regulation: Law, Science & Policy and is currently working on the first casebook on “Global Environmental Law.” Professor Percival is a member of the IUCN Commission on Environmental Law, and in April 2009, he delivered Pace Law School’s Lloyd K. Garrison Lecture on “The Globalization of Environmental Law.”

Professor Percival has been a generous and tireless supporter of the Maryland Public Interest Law Project. For the past several years, Professor Percival has donated a grant named in his honor, which has enabled students to work at environmental law organizations such as the Natural Resources Defense Council (NRDC), Environmental Defense, Environmental Protection Agency, and Center for International Environmental Development. Professor Percival’s ceaseless advocacy of environmental law and his many accomplishments throughout his brilliant legal career have left an indelible mark on the Maryland Law community and the lives of those he has touched.

Please join us in honoring Professor Percival for his inspirational support of MPILP and the public interest community at the Law School.
