THE HAGUE

May 27-June 23, 2018
credits earned: 6
wcl.american.edu/hague
hagueprogram@wcl.american.edu

The Summer Program in The Hague offers students a unique opportunity to live and learn at the heart of the international justice community. In 1899, the world’s first Peace Conference took place here. Currently, The Hague is home to more than 150 international legal organizations.

Participants examine critical issues in international law and spend a month in the “International City of Peace and Justice” among the practitioners, courts, and tribunals that are making history today.

Students are housed in spacious apartments in the center of The Hague, close to a variety of prominent Dutch landmarks such as the Peace Palace.

The Program is the product of collaboration between the War Crimes Research Office of American University Washington College of Law (AUWCL) — established to promote the development and enforcement of international criminal and humanitarian law — and the T.M.C. Asser Institute, one of the most prominent research institutes of international law in Europe.

COURSES
International Criminal Law: In Search of Accountability provides an introduction to international criminal law and explores the various ways in which national, international, and so-called “hybrid” criminal courts and tribunals have attempted to enforce criminal responsibility for serious violations of human rights and humanitarian law.

International Legal Approaches to Terrorism in the 21st Century examines counter-terrorism measures from an international and comparative law perspective and considers the interrelationship between these measures and the obligations of states under international human rights and humanitarian law.

In addition to AUWCL faculty members, instructors include judges, prosecutors, and other staff from the International Court of Justice (ICJ), the International Criminal Court (ICC), the International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia (ICTY), the T.M.C. Asser Institute, and other organizations.

ACTIVITIES
Integral to the program are visits to international tribunals and legal institutions, including the ICJ, ICC, and ICTY, where students have an opportunity to observe proceedings and speak to practitioners in the field. The program also includes a networking panel with practitioners in international criminal law. Participants will also have the opportunity to visit Amsterdam, and can use their other free weekends for trips to other parts of Europe.

INTERNSHIPS
Many students secure an internship after the program. For instance, students have interned with CTY defense teams, the ICC, the Special Tribunal for Lebanon, and the International Bar Association’s ICC Monitoring Programme.

A Panel Discussion on Restorative Justice

THE ROLE OF MEDIATION IN LAW ENFORCEMENT

On March 2, 2018, 11:45 am - 1:00 pm, the Section of Dispute Resolution's Mid-Atlantic Chapter will sponsor a brown bag panel discussion moderated by Geoff Drucker called “The Role of Mediation in Law Enforcement”. The program is free of charge and will take place at the ABA’s office in Washington, DC, 1660 Connecticut Avenue, NW, 5th floor.

The program will feature panelists including:
1. Rochelle Howard, Deputy Director of the D.C. Office of Police Complaints;
2. Megan Johnston, Executive Director of the Northern Virginia Mediation Service;
4. Lieutenant Brian Rucker, School Liaison Commander and Fairfax County Police Department lead with the Fairfax County Alternative Accountability Planning Program.

The program will explain how mediation is being used as an alternative or supplement to the criminal justice system, and as a means of promoting constructive dialogue and improved understanding between law enforcement officers and citizens. To register go to:

Cancer Survivorship: Fostering Resilience for Cancer Survivors

Wednesday, March 7, 8 a.m. - 4:30 p.m.
University of Maryland School of Nursing Auditorium

An interprofessional, full-day conference focused on preparing cancer survivors for the challenges of completing treatment and for not only bouncing back but “bouncing forward” after cancer. Participants will learn from physicians, nurses, social workers, nutritionists, physical therapists, and cancer survivors, ways in which survivors, their support systems, and their health care team can build resilience after a diagnosis of cancer throughout their survivorship journey. This is a collaboration between the University of Maryland School of Nursing and the University of Maryland Marlene and Stewart Greenebaum Comprehensive Cancer Center.

Defining the Problem: Police Perspectives featuring guest speaker, Chief David Mitchell

Tuesday, February 27th 6:30pm-8:00pm 1101 Morrill Hall

The law enforcement career of David B. Mitchell spans four decades. His career began in 1971 as a Police Officer in Prince George’s County Maryland. He worked his way up the ranks and in 1990 was appointed Chief of Police. For the next five years he led the 38th largest police department in the nation. In 1995, Dave was appointed to the Governor’s Cabinet the Superintendent of the Maryland State Police. As Superintendent, he led the seventh largest state police department in the nation for eight years including during the 9-11 attacks in 2001 and the D.C. Sniper case in 2003. After retiring from the state police, Dave served a five-year term as the Secretary of the Department of Safety and Homeland Security in Delaware. Today, Chief Mitchell serves as the Director of Public Safety and Chief of Police for the University of Maryland College Park Campus.

* This series is open to graduate students from ALL departments*
