BRINGING MARGINALIZED VOICES TO THE CENTER

A Policy Forum on Gender-Based Violence

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 25
4 TO 6 P.M.

School of Nursing Auditorium
655 W. Lombard St.

APRIL 18, 2018
4:00PM-6:00PM
UMMC Shock Trauma Auditorium
(22 S. Greene St.)

Join us for a panel discussion with Baltimore-based organizations highlighting marginalized voices in the national conversation on gender-based violence. Panelists will discuss sexual violence, sexual harassment, and intimate partner violence against women with disabilities, women veterans, transgender women, Latina immigrant and undocumented women, and women in low-wage work. A moderated Q & A including discussion of policy solutions will follow.

THE UMBRELLA GROUP
UMB Roundtable on Empowerment in Leadership and Leveraging Aspirations

SPEAKER
JOYCE J. SCOTT

"The Art and Advocacy of Joyce J. Scott"

Joyce J. Scott is an artist, sculptor, quilter, performance and installation artist, lecturer, and educator. Named a MacArthur Fellow in 2016, Scott is best known for her figurative sculptures and jewelry using freeform, off-loom bead weaving techniques. One piece may be constructed with thousands of glass seed or pony beads, and incorporate other found objects such as glass, quilting, and leather.

In 2018, she was hailed for working in a new medium—a mixture of soil, clay, straw, and cement—for a sculpture meant to disintegrate and return to the earth.

Scott is renowned for her social commentary on issues such as racism, sexism, violence, and stereotypes, as well as themes of spiritual healing. "I make jewelry to be worn," she says. "And if it tells about scary, icky subjects, then so much the better for the person who has the courage to wear it in public."

Her mother encouraged her creativity and Scott began drawing in elementary school in Baltimore. She has a Bachelor of Fine Arts from the Maryland Institute College of Art (graduated 1970), and a Master of Fine Arts from the Instituto Allende in Mexico.

Her works can be seen at the Baltimore Museum of Art, the Mildred Lane Kemper Art Museum in St. Louis, the Mint Museum of Art in Charlotte, N.C., and the Smithsonian Institution, among others.
