- Tours take place every Tuesday in October.
- Registration required.
- Dress comfortably and for the weather.
- You may bring a bottle of water—optional.

Sign up for a tour at umaryland.edu/parking/tours-on-tuesdays

ABOUT LEXINGTON MARKET

Many say Lexington Market is Baltimore's best place for food. Whatever you like to eat, it has something for you. The market has more than 100 vendors, offering everything from world-famous crab cakes to fried chicken, authentic Indian delicacies to corned beef, fresh seafood to verdant produce. In its iconic building, you can get a snack, buy some groceries, or sit down for a memorable meal. Not hungry? Lexington Market's 230 years of history still make it an interesting place to visit — and it is accessible by road, sidewalk, or rail. Whether this is your first time or your 100th, Lexington Market has something delicious for you.

DO YOU KNOW SOMEONE?
A Launch Your Life Speaker Series

This five-week speaker series reflects the University of Maryland, Baltimore’s commitment to health and well-being in the community of care and support.

If you know someone struggling with mental health and its stigma, let’s talk.

IN YOUR OWN VOICE—DEPRESSION
Oct. 4, Noon-1 p.m.
SMC Campus Center, 349

NAM’s In Our Own Voice presentations change attitudes, assumptions and stereotypes by describing the reality of living with mental illness. People with mental health conditions share their powerful personal stories in this presentation, and engage with audience members to give them a better understanding of mental health.

TAKE CARE
Oct. 10, Noon-1 p.m.
Lexington Building, Room 2-111

Did you know perinatal depression affects 15-20% in all populations of pregnant and postpartum women? Other statistics show as many as 1 in 7 women are affected and is recommended to get screened at least once during the perinatal period. To learn more and to help support women in your lives join us in this riveting presentation.

LET’S TALK
Oct. 30, Noon-1 p.m.
Lexington Building, Room 3-111

Anyone can struggle with a mental health problem. As a family member or friend, do you sometimes feel helpless to do anything to be supportive? Join the EAP for an open, supportive discussion on how to support a family member of friend struggling with mental health issues. All UMB employees are welcome to attend.

ABOUT
The Local Food Connection is a program works to support the economy of neighboring communities in West Baltimore by using institutional food buying power. Small but frequent purchases from local food vendors help support diverse revenue streams that help neighborhoods retain food businesses that hire local workers, improve local properties, and make food available to community members.

Participating local small businesses receive access to training, technical assistance, marketing support, and other resources to help them succeed in selling food to the local institutions. The Local Food Connection is a collaborative effort; currently, the program is governed by a coalition of community organizations, anchor institutions such as UM and UMBC, and neighborhood leaders.
