ABOUT LEXINGTON MARKET

Many say Lexington Market is Baltimore’s best place for food. Whatever you like to eat, it has something for you. The market has more than 100 vendors, offering everything from world-famous crab cakes to fried chicken, authentic Indian delicacies to corned beef, fresh seafood to verdant produce. In its iconic building, you can get a snack, buy some groceries, or sit down for a memorable meal. Not hungry? Lexington Market’s 230 years of history still make it an interesting place to visit — and it is accessible by road, sidewalk, or rail. Whether this is your first time or your 100th, Lexington Market has something delicious for you.
DO YOU KNOW SOMEONE?

A Launch Your Life Speaker Series

This five-week speaker series reflects the University of Maryland, Baltimore’s commitment to health and well-being in a community of care and support.

If you know someone struggling with mental health and its stigma, let’s talk.

---

IN YOUR OWN VOICE—DEPRESSION

Oct. 4, Noon-1 p.m.

SMC Campus Center, 349

NAMM’s In Our Own Voice presentations change attitudes, assumptions and stereotypes by describing the reality of living with mental illness. People with mental health conditions share their powerful personal stories in this presentation, and engage with audience members to give them a better understanding of mental health.

---

TAKE CARE

Oct. 10, Noon-1 p.m.

Lexington Building, Room 2-111

Did you know perinatal depression affects 15-20% of all populations of pregnant and postpartum women? Other studies show as many as 1 in 7 women are affected and is recommended to get screened at least once during the perinatal period. To learn more and to help support women in your lives join us in this riveting presentation.

LET’S TALK

Oct. 30, Noon-1 p.m.

Lexington Building, Room 3-111

Anyone can struggle with a mental health problem. As a family member or friend, do you sometimes feel helpless to do anything to be supportive? Join the EAP for an open, supportive discussion on how to support a family member or friend struggling with mental health issues. All UMB employees are welcome to attend.

IN YOUR OWN VOICE—BIPOLAR

Oct. 18, Noon-1 p.m.

Lexington Building, Room 3-111

NAMM’s In Our Own Voice adds a critical perspective to the popular understanding of what people with mental illness are like. You will gain understanding that every person with a mental illness can hope for a bright future and will discover how it is possible to live a healthy life with a mental illness.

STRONG WOMEN

Oct. 24, Noon-1 p.m.

SMC Campus Center, 351

Get tips and learn how to prevent depression and anxiety in pregnancy focusing on women in the workplace. Join us in support of mental health and learn about resources and start talking towards a change. Presented by Women’s Mental Health Program.

Local Food Connection

FOOD FAIR Friday, November 2nd Noon to 1:00 p.m.

UM BioPark
801 W. Baltimore St
Conference Center

- Sample free food
- Learn about local businesses that provide catering services
- Collect menus and coupons for your next event (while supplies last)
- Support businesses in Southwest Baltimore
- All vendors accept the ProCard

ABOUT

The Local Food Connection is a program works to support the economy of neighboring communities in West Baltimore by using institutional purchasing power, small but frequent catering purchases are an ideal way to build reliable revenue streams that help neighborhoods retain food businesses that hire local workers, improve local properties, and make food available to community members.

Participating local small businesses receive access to training, technical assistance, marketing support, and other resources to help them succeed in selling food to buyers like you. To ensure accountability to the community, the program is governed by a coalition of community organizations, anchor institutions such as UMB and UMMC, and neighborhood leaders.

You are being invited to this food fair because you purchase, or advise the purchase of, food for meetings or events. If someone else in your office would be more appropriate to attend, please forward the invitation to him or her.
