The 4th Annual Interprofessional Forum on Ethics and Religion in Health Care

TRANSFORMING APPROACHES TO SUBSTANCE USE DISORDERS

TUESDAY, NOV. 7 / 8:30 A.M.-3:30 P.M.
Southern Management Corporation Campus Center

Individuals with substance use disorders face challenges from multiple sources, including stigma that they lack the will to overcome their addiction. But what allows one person to succeed and another to continuously struggle? In this conference, we address this question from various perspectives, including what different health care professions offer in support of those with substance use disorders, as well as religious and spiritual perspectives.

This program is designed to facilitate interprofessional learning. We invite all health care professionals, clergy, and lay persons to attend and participate in discussions that consider strategies to facilitate improved outcomes.

COST:
- Full-time Students and Medical Residents: $50
- Individuals: $95
- MHECN Members: $75

The Impact of Social Determinants on the Health and Well-Being of Baltimore’s Communities: A Plan for Action
Leana S. Wen, MD, MSc, FAAEM
Commissioner
Baltimore City Health Department

While 97 percent of health care costs are spent on care delivered in hospitals, only 10 percent of what determines life expectancy takes place within the four walls of a clinic. Where we live, work, and play drives health and well-being. Dr. Wen will outline the Baltimore City Health Department’s innovative blueprint for combating health inequities and improving the well-being of all residents.
Ninth Annual Global Health on the Ground:

Summer Ethics Fellowship for Law Students and Recent Graduates

In two short weeks, I learned about the power that comes with being a lawyer and the devastating consequences our actions can have. This served as a huge reminder that I should be the best professional I can be.

Maritza Martin, UC Berkeley School of Law, 2016 Law Fellow

FASPE Law (Fellowships at Auschwitz for the Study of Professional Ethics in Law) is a fully-funded two-week summer program that uses the conduct of lawyers and judges in Nazi Germany as a launching point for an intensive study in contemporary legal ethics. FASPE Law is predicated upon the power of place. Fellows visit Auschwitz and other sites in Germany and Poland where they consider how to apply the lessons of history to the ethical challenges they will face in their careers.

In 2018, the program will take place from Monday, May 21 to Friday, June 1. (Fellows are expected to arrive in Europe by Sunday, May 20.) All program costs are covered, including the equivalent of round-trip travel from New York to Europe, as well as all European travel, lodging and food. FASPE Law Fellows travel and share some seminars with Fellows in the FASPE Business and Journalism programs.

FASPE Law is open to current JD and LLM students and those who received a JD or LLM between May 2016 and January 2018. It is designed to address ethical challenges in all fields of law, including the private sector, public interest organizations, and the government.

To learn more about FASPE and to apply, please visit: http://www.faspe-ethics.org.

FASPE programs are non-denominational. Candidates of all religious, ethnic, and cultural backgrounds are encouraged to apply.

FASPE staff is happy to talk with applicants concerned about potential conflicts with clerkships or bar preparation. For a list of previous Fellows, please visit http://www.faspe-ethics.org/fellows-by-year.

Completed applications are due by Thursday, January 11, 2018.

ABOUT LEXINGTON MARKET

Many say Lexington Market is Baltimore’s best place for food. Whatever you like to eat, it has something for you. The market has more than 100 vendors, offering everything from world-famous crabcakes to fried chicken, authentic Indian delicacies to corned beef, fresh seafood to verdant produce. In its iconic building, you can get a snack, buy some groceries, or sit down for a memorable meal. Not hungry? Lexington Market’s 230 years of history still make it an interesting place to visit — and it is accessible by road, sidewalk, or rail. Whether this is your first time or your 100th, Lexington Market has something delicious for you.

“The End of the Asian Century:
Donald Trump, China, Kim Jong Un, and the Crisis of Geopolitics”

In his highly acclaimed book The End of the Asian Century: War, Stagnation, and the Rise to the World’s Most Dynamic Region, Michael Auslin provides a realistic view of the numerous challenges facing the nations of Asia, thus cautioning those who have expected a prosperous, stable, and even preeminent Asian century. Within this analysis, in his address here, he will emphasize the dangers of the geopolitical rise of Trump, Kim Jong Un, and China. The evening should provide a deeper understanding of the geopolitics of Asia as well as a better informed view of the possible ramifications of the North Korea crisis.

Dr. Auslin received his B.A. from Georgetown University’s School of Foreign Service, an MA in Russian Studies from Indiana University, and a Ph.D. in History from the University of Illinois. Before joining the Hoover Institution, he was a resident scholar and Director of Japanese Studies at the American Enterprise Institute for a decade, and earlier an Associate Professor of History at Yale University for seven years. He also has been a visiting researcher at the Graduate School of Law at Tokyo University and a visiting professor in the Faculty of Law at Toyo University. Serious professional work on national security and foreign policy parallels and informs his work on Asia.

It is a great pleasure to welcome Dr. Michael R. Auslin to the Council.

Mail to: Reservations for the address by Dr. Auslin, 10/18/17 may be made by mail, phone, fax, or online, or through the link on the event page on our website - www.bcfausa.org.

“The Case for Trump’s Foreign Policy”

The Baltimore Council on Foreign Affairs has long been committed to trying to articulate the theory, principles, and policies of our incumbent administrations, so that analyses of them are made easier and better grounded. In that spirit, the Council is especially pleased to welcome Matthew Kroenig whose view of the Trump foreign policy recently appeared in Foreign Affairs.

Dr. Kroenig received his BA in history summa cum laude from the University of Missouri, Columbia, and his MA and Ph.D. in political science from the University of California, Berkeley. He completed a post-doctoral fellowship at Harvard and held fellowships at the Council on Foreign Relations, Stanford University, and the University of California.

He began his career as a military analyst in the strategic assessment group at the Central Intelligence Agency. In 2005, he worked as a strategist in the Office of the Secretary of Defense, where he was the principal author of the first ever U.S. government-wide strategy for deterring terrorist networks. In 2010-2011, he was a special advisor on Iran policy in the Office of the Secretary of Defense. He served as a foreign policy advisor on Mitt Romney’s 2012 presidential campaign and was the senior national security advisor on Marco Rubio’s 2016 campaign. He now is an Associate Professor of Government and Foreign Service at Georgetown University and regularly consults with the defense, energy, and intelligence communities.

Professor Kroenig is the author, coauthor, or coeditor of five books on nuclear proliferation. His numerous peer-reviewed articles have covered international relations and foreign policy including Europe, Asia, the Middle East, nuclear deterrence and nonproliferation, terrorism, soft power, and democracy.

As one seeks to understand contemporary American foreign policy, this promises to be a most helpful evening.

It is a great pleasure to welcome Dr. Matthew Kroenig to the Council.

Mail to: Reservations for the address by Dr. Kroenig, 10/23/17 may be made by mail, phone, fax, or online, or through the link on the event page on our website - www.bcfausa.org.
